Governor Hopes To Find Basis For Mediation To End Deadlock

70,000 MEN OUT OF WORK

Campaign To Organize Ore Mines Is Launched

CLEVELAND, June 4—(UP)—Governor Martin L. Davey confers with steel strike leaders today in an effort to find a basis for mediation. Seventy thousand employees of three independent steel companies are idle in seven states.

Davey meets Philip Murray, chairman of the steel workers' organizing committee, and Lee Pressman, attorney for the Committee for Industrial Organization, of which the S. W. O. C. is an affiliate.

There was action on both sides as the governor began his mediation conferences. Chief developments:

1—The Republic Steel Corporation offered a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone firing at airplanes carrying food to non-strikers in its plants at Niles and Warren, O.

Airplanes Contested

2—The S. W. O. C. demanded an investigation by the department of commerce of the corporation's use of airplanes. The planes, the union charged, were unlicensed and carrying passengers as well as food. Republic executives replied that "everything as far as our plants are concerned is absolutely in order."

3—Murray announced a campaign.

DISTRICT W.P.A. TOTAL SLASHED

County To Lose About 25 Under New Allotment of 5,541 Disclosed

Reallotment of W. P. A. totals in Ohio will mean a reduction of about 25 persons in Pickaway county, L. L. Henninger, Chillicothe, district supervisor, announced Friday.

In Ohio, there will be 15,000 persons taken from project rolls. The slash is effective June 15. Over the entire state, the present job quota of 115,000 has been reduced to 100,000.

Henninger said the last employment reports for this district, which includes nine counties, show 6,188 persons on the payroll. The quota established for this district for June 15 is 5,541.

Projects Running Out

"The reduction will be divided proportionately among the counties in the district," Henninger said. "Pickaway county is gradually working itself out of projects, and reductions will naturally be necessary in the near future."

A severe drop in employment figures is shown in the report of the local W. P. A. office for the week ending June 2.

During the week 218 persons were listed on the payroll as compared to 284 the previous week. The cut was due largely to the suspension of women's projects to permit workers to accept private employment.

NEW CLUES LEAD POSSES TOWARD LOST AIRPLANE

ALPINE, Utah, June 4—(UP)—Encouraged by new clues, letters from the mail cargo and spotches of oil on the ground, searchers poked into snowdrifts in a canyon off Chipman's Peak today, expecting momentarily to find the wreckage of the long lost Western Air Express plane and bodies of the seven persons aboard when it vanished.

The plane has been missing since Dec. 15, 1936.

The search was centered in this desolate mountain country a week ago when natives found two letters that were identified as part of the mail cargo aboard the plane. Yesterday two more letters were found, and another pool of oil beneath a rock ledge. Obviously the oil had been spilled from a plane.

It was believed that the plane struck the peak somewhere near the ledge, and tumbled off into the canyon, which is a mile long and filled with snow to a 30-foot depth.

The searching party operated from a camp at a 9,000-foot altitude and was supplied by a pack train. There were 20 men in the party. They climbed the drifts and poked long wires down through them, probing for the wreckage that might be covered with a winter's snow.

PLASTERING IN ADDITION

Plastering and installation of floors in the addition to the courthouse has been started. T. M. Barnes, county supervisor on the project, believes the addition will be completed about July 15.

Telegrams From Britain's Royal Family Received By Happy Couple

VENICE, June 4—(UP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, smiling and happy, arrived at the famous city of canals at 3:50 p. m. today en route to their secluded honeymoon retreat in Austria.

They were cheered by 1,000 persons at the station.

ABOARD THE ORIENT EXPRESS EN ROUTE TO ARNOLDSTEIN, June 4—(UP)—

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, most famous lovers of their age, sped in a special car today across Switzerland and Italy toward their castle in the honeymooners' paradise of lower Austria.

Their train, passing through the long Simplon tunnel from Switzerland, arrived at Milan at noon and left for Venice and a scheduled three hour halt 10 minutes later.

At Venice a motor boat was waiting in hope that the honeymooners, during a scheduled three-hour stop late today, would tour the romantic canals and lagoons of Venice as they did in happy hours they spent there years ago.

Crowd of 500 Cheers

At Milan the honeymooning couple showed themselves for the first time since their train left France last night. They looked completely happy as they stepped from the windows of their car to the 500-odd people who waited at the train and shouted:

"Long live the Duke and Duchess of Windsor."

They had remained in their compartment since they entered the train.

The duke and duchess opened telegrams from the British royal family and friends as the train neared Milan.

PACK OF LARGE PEA CROP BEGINS IN TWO PLANTS

Crites Factory, Ashville, Goes to Work Friday; Winorr Saturday

MANY TO TAKE JOBS

Weather Promises Nearly Record Output

Several hundred Circleville and Pickaway county residents were given work Friday, and will take jobs Saturday on the pack of one of the finest pea crops in recent years.

The Winorr Canning Co., largest packer of peas in Pickaway county, starts its work Saturday. The Winorr Co. has more than 1,000 acres contracted.

The Crites Co. began operations on Friday with the peas being prepared on the Crites farm, Pickaway township, for hauling to the Ashville canning factory. The plant in Ashville has been remodeled, with new modern machinery installed. The Crites interests have approximately 700 acres of peas contracted.

The Ladoga Co., operating plants in Circleville and Chillicothe, is taking all its peas to the Ross county plant. Only beans and hominy are being canned in the Circleville factory.

The Esmeralda Co. is busy with its spinach pack, about 150 persons being on the payroll. The pack may continue two weeks or even a month, plant officials declared Friday.

Weather, until the last week, has been almost perfect for the pea crop. Blistering sun on Tuesday and Wednesday caused a little damage, but not enough to keep the crop from being near a record.

The pea pack will continue for three or four weeks.

TOWNSHIP BOARD TO VOTE BONDS FOR NEW ROOMS

The Deer Creek township board of education has asked the tax commission for permission to hold a special election for a bond issue to finance the district's portion of the expense of an addition to the school.

Plans for the addition have been prepared by F. F. Glass, Columbus architect, and forwarded to W. P. A. officials for approval. The building would be of cast stone, or concrete block, and would be erected on the northeast corner of the present structure. It will include a gymnasium and two class rooms.

No estimates of the cost have been announced.

HOUSE APPROVES MONEY FOR P.W.A. FOR TWO YEARS

WASHINGTON, June 4—(UP)—The house appropriations committee today reported favorably a bill to extend the Public Works administration for two more years and increase to $259,000,000 the amount of P. W. A. reserves available for grants and loans.

Action on the measure was an aftermath of the intense fight over P. W. A. during house debate on the $1,500,000,000 relief bill.

CO-OP TO SEEK EARLY BIDS FOR ELECTRIC LINES

Another meeting of executives of the South Central Ohio Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc., will be held Wednesday night, June 9, to execute a loan contract and make further plans to advertise for bids for the construction of 122 miles of lines in Fairfield county following a partial allotment of $105,000 made by the Rural Electrification Administration at Washington.

Darwin Kinder, Fairfield county manager of the program, believes bids will be asked June 15. Under a normal progress schedule, farmers in Fairfield county may begin to use electricity sometime this fall.

The Fairfield county project is a branch of a tri-county program which includes Pickaway county. The entire project, including Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties, will cost over $700,000.

CLASS PLAY TOO REALISTIC, STAR DIES OF WOUND

ISABEL Kan., June 4—(UP)—A high school play that called for the shooting of the leading actor as a climax, was left without a star today after a too-realistic rehearsal.

Sixteen-year-old Robert Douthitt was dead. He was shot through the chest back-stage late Thursday. His best friend, Kent Loessler, 17, pulled the trigger. The revolver was one of the "props." It was to have been loaded with blanks for the stage shooting. Somebody forgot to remove a shell from it.

The play was to have gone on tonight as the last event of the school term. The boys were arranging the stage properties at the high school auditorium. Robert had the leading part in the play. Kent picked up the gun, toyed with it.

Taking the part of the actor who was to "shoot," Kent aimed at Robert and began pulling the trigger. The gun snapped several times until the cylinder rolled around to the live bullet. It exploded and Robert fell to the floor. He died on the way to Medicine Lodge hospital.

22 Summoned for Jury Duty in $22,786 Action

Mrs. Ruth Elsea Calls 10 Witnesses in Damage Suit Against Columbus Trucker, Set For Monday

Twenty-two persons have been notified to report in common pleas court at 9 a. m. Monday as prospective jurors for $22,786 suit of Mrs. Ruth Elsea, widow of Asa Elsea, against the Benedict Lines, Columbus.

Mr. Elsea was killed March 13, 1936, in an auto-truck collision on Route 23 at a curve north of South Bloomfield. The petition says he was a passenger in the front seat of the automobile. It charges the commercial car was being operated in a careless manner. The answer of the trucking company contends the death of Mr. Elsea was not due to any negligent act. It denies the allegations in the petition.

John McCrady and Bernard Dowden, riding in the auto, were killed in the same accident. Ten witnesses have been called by the plaintiff. No list has been submitted by the truckers. Those called by the plaintiff are C. E. Nofor, chief of records of the bureau of motor vehicles; Judge C. C. Young and his son, Clayton; Helen Hartranft, Byron Custer, Edward Cupp and Fred C. Clark, city; Loring Hoffman, Salt Creek township; Isaac Miller, who resides along Route 23, and Kenneth Fullen, Williamsport, R. F. D.

Those called for jury duty are Royal Hamman and Marie Skinner, Perry township; George L. Miller, second ward; A. J. Hammel, third ward; Harry Stevenson, W. E. Brinker and C. R. Forger, Walnut township; Roy Rittinger, Wayne township; Laura Bowers and Fred Barthelmas, Harrison township; George Hittler and Turney A. Leist, Washington township; Andrew Schwarz and Helen McDill, Deer Creek township; G. V. Richey, Scioto township; Nellie Dunkle, Circleville township; Edna Liston, Lora Bailey, and Jesse A. Tootle, Monroe township; Virginia Thatcher, Jackson township, M. L. Frederick, Salt Creek township, and Frank Karshner, Pickaway township.

It is felt that during the last few months some changes have occurred which modify the situation, but that there still exists the necessity for injection of new blood into the supreme court.

From Nine to Eleven

A compromise favored by many Roosevelt men in the senate would increase the supreme court from nine to eleven in contrast with the increase of six proposed by the president in his court message of Feb. 5.

Coincidence with the summons of Robinson to the White House, it was reported Mr. Roosevelt contemplated asking all federal judges to postpone their vacations to clear their dockets. That could not be confirmed and, in any event, only the lower courts would be affected because the supreme court summer recess began this week.

GEORGE WAITES, 49, OF AMANDA, TAKES OWN LIFE

Rifle wounds, inflicted by himself caused the death early Friday of George Harrison Waites, 49, Amanda township farmer. Mr. Waites was found in the cellar of his farm home by Mrs. Waites. His health was blamed for his act.

The Fairfield county man was still alive when Mrs. Waites found him, but he died an hour later.

Mrs. Waites had gone to the barn to do the morning milking, and her husband was to have followed her in a few minutes. When he failed to come, she returned to the house, locating him in the cellar.

Mr. Waites is survived by his widow, six brothers, all residents of Fairfield county, and one sister, Mrs. Sam Kuhn, of Tilton.

The funeral will be Monday at 1:30 p. m. at the Cedar Hill Evangelical church, with burial in the Amanda township cemetery, by H. E. Defenbaugh and Son.

ROBINSON LISTS NEW DEAL ACTS FOR EARLY VOTE

President, Congress Near Test of Strength Over Many Major Issues

CLEAR DOCKETS ASKED

Foes Of Revision Action To Combat Any Change

WASHINGTON, June 4—(UP)—President Roosevelt returned today to the battle for judicial reorganization with orders to Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson to push a compromise bill to a vote at this session.

President and congress are moving toward a test of strength on major issues. But compromise is inevitable if Mr. Roosevelt's court bill is to be passed at all. Democratic opponents of court reorganization said they welcomed the challenge and would defeat the White House judicial program.

Keystone Bills Listed

Robinson listed New Deal legislative keystones for this session as:

1. Farm tenancy.
2. Slum clearance.
3. Extension of nuisance taxes and closing tax evasion loopholes.
4. Executive department and judicial reorganization.
5. Wage and hours bill.

But he quickly denied the forecoming was a White House "must list." Robinson said enactment was not imperative but was desirable.

He conferred for more than two hours at the White House last night with the president. Emerging, Robinson said he expected a court vote before adjournment, but intimated compromise so broadly that some listeners believed the president might finally consent to limiting reorganization to the lower courts, leaving the supreme court at its normal membership.

Robinson said, however, that the high bench needed "new blood." The informality of his announcement after meeting with Mr. Roosevelt caused conflicting interpretations to his exact meaning.

"Aside from the provisions which relate to the supreme court," Robinson said "the other features of the bill are to be regarded as of vital importance."

It is felt that during the last few months some changes have occurred which modify the situation, but that there still exists the necessity for injection of new blood into the supreme court.

TWO BIG MOTOR PLANTS CLOSED IN NEW STRIKES

DETROIT, June 4—(UP)—Two major automobile manufacturers—Chrysler and Packard—were forced to close factories in their vast plants today because of new labor troubles.

Chrysler closed its Jefferson and Kercheval avenue plants to an estimated 8,100 workers after workers on the motor line had refused to work with employees who do not belong to the United Automobile Workers of America.

Packard announced that a sit-down strike of 150 workers in the metal stamping and finishing division had brought a partial shut-down to the body division where 2,300 workers are employed.

DISTRICT W.P.A. TOTAL SLASHED

County To Lose About 25 Under New Allotment of 5,541 Disclosed

Reallotment of W. P. A. totals in Ohio will mean a reduction of about 25 persons in Pickaway county, L. L. Henninger, Chillicothe, district supervisor, announced Friday.

In Ohio, there will be 15,000 persons taken from project rolls. The slash is effective June 15. Over the entire state, the present job quota of 115,000 has been reduced to 100,000.

CLASS PLAY TOO REALISTIC, STARDIES OF WOUND

ISABEL Kan., June 4—(UP)—A high school play that called for the shooting of the leading actor as a climax, was left without a star today after a too-realistic rehearsal.

Sixteen-year-old Robert Douthitt was dead. He was shot through the chest back-stage late Thursday. His best friend, Kent Loessler, 17, pulled the trigger. The revolver was one of the "props," it was to have been loaded with blanks for the stage shooting. Somebody forgot to remove a shell from it.

The play was to have gone on tonight as the last event of the school term. The boys were arguing the stage properties at the high school auditorium. Robert had the leading part in the play. Kent picked up the gun, toyed with it.

Taking the part of the actor who was to "shoot," Kent aimed at Robert and began pulling the trigger. The gun snapped several times until the cylinder rolled around to the live bullet. It exploded and Robert fell to the floor. He died on the way to Medicine Lodge hospital.

Latest reports indicated that the blaze was under control, and that the ship expected to arrive here tonight.

The Ludington left New York a week ago with explosives for the fleet, air and submarine bases at Coco Solo, C. Z.

Mrs. Ruth Elsea Calls 10 Witnesses in Damage Suit Against Columbus Trucker, Set For Monday

Twenty-two persons have been notified to report in common pleas court at 9 a. m. Monday as prospective jurors for $22,786 suit of Mrs. Ruth Elsea, widow of Asa Elsea, against the Benedict Lines, Columbus.

Mr. Elsea was killed March 13, 1936, in an auto-truck collision on Route 23 at a curve north of South Bloomfield. The petition says he was a passenger in the front seat of the automobile. It charges the commercial car was being operated in a careless manner.

The answer of the trucking company contends the death of Mr. Elsea was not due to any negligent act. It denies the allegations in the petition.

John McCrady and Bernard Dowden, riding in the auto, were killed in the same accident.

Ten witnesses have been called by the plaintiff. No list has been submitted by the truckers. Those called by the plaintiff are C. E. Nofer, chief of records of the bureau of motor vehicles; Judge C. C. Young and his son, Clayton; Helen Hartranft, Bryan Custer, Edward Cupp and Fred C. Clark, city; Loring Hoffman, Saltcreek township; Isaac Miller, who resides along Route 23, and Kenneth Fullen, Williamsport, R. F. D. Rifle wounds, inflicted by himself caused the death early Friday of George Harrison Waites, 49, Amanda township farmer. Mr. Waites was found in the cellar of his farm home by Mrs. Waites. Ill health was blamed for his act.

The Fairfield county man was still alive when Mrs. Waites found him, but he died an hour later.

Mrs. Waites had gone to the barn to do the morning milking, and her husband was to have followed her in a few minutes. When he failed to come, she returned to the house, locating him in the cellar.

Mr. Waites is survived by his widow, six brothers, all residents of Fairfield county, and one sister, Mrs. Sam Kuhn, of Tarleton. The funeral will be Monday at 1:30 p. m. at the Cedar Hill Evangelical church, with burial in the Amanda township cemetery, by H. E. Defenbaugh and Son.

ROBINSON LISTS NEW DEAL ACTS FOR EARLY VOTE

President, Congress Near Test of Strength Over Many Major Issues

CLEAR DOCKETS ASKED

Foes Of Revision Action To Combat Any Change

WASHINGTON, June 4—(UP)—President Roosevelt returned today to the battle for judicial reorganization with orders to Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson to push a compromise bill to a vote at this session.

President and congress are moving toward a test of strength on major issues. But compromise is inevitable if Mr. Roosevelt's court bill is to be passed at all. Democratic opponents of court reorganization said they welcomed the challenge and would defeat the White House judicial program.

Keystone Bills Listed Robinson listed New Deal legislative keystones for this session as:

1. Farm tenancy.
2. Slum clearance.
3. Extension of nuisance taxes and closing tax evasion loopholes.
4. Executive department and judicial reorganization.
5. Wage and hours bill.

But he quickly denied the foregoing was a White House "must list." Robinson said enactment was not imperative but was desirable.

He conferred for more than two hours at the White House last night with the president. Emerging, Robinson said he expected a court vote before adjournment, but intimated compromise so broadly that some listeners believed the president might finally consent to limiting reorganization to the lower courts, leaving the supreme court at its normal membership.

Robinson said, however, that the high bench needed "new blood." The informality of his announcement after meeting with Mr. Roosevelt caused conflicting interpretations to his exact meaning.

"Aside from the provisions which relate to the supreme court," Robinson said "the other features of the bill are to be regarded as of vital importance."

It is felt that during the last few months some changes have occurred which modify the situation, but that there still exists the necessity for injection of new blood into the supreme court.

From Nine to Eleven A compromise favored by many Roosevelt men in the senate would increase the supreme court from nine to eleven in contrast with the increase of six proposed by the president in his court message of Feb. 5.

Coincident with the summons of Robinson to the White House, it was reported Mr. Roosevelt contemplated asking all federal judges to postpone their vacations to clear their dockets. That could not be confirmed and, in any event, only the lower courts would be effected because the supreme court summer recess began this week.

TWO BIG MOTOR PLANTS CLOSED IN NEW STRIKES

DETROIT, June 4—(UP)—Two major automobile manufacturers—Chrysler and Packard—were forced to close factories in their vast plants today because of new labor troubles.

Chrysler closed its Jefferson and Kercheval avenue plants to an estimated 8,100 workers after workers on the motor line had refused to work with employees who do not belong to the United Automobile Workers of America. Packard announced that a sit-down strike of 150 workers in the metal stamping and finishing division had brought a partial shutdown to the body division where 2,500 workers are employed.

Nazis Execute Man Jailed For Carrying Explosives Into Germany

REPRIEVE IS DENIED

Strange Case Closed With Beheading at Dawn

BERLIN, June 4. (UP)—Helmuth Hirsch, 21, an American citizen, was executed today for high treason despite efforts of American authorities to obtain a reprieve.

An American national who never had lived in the United States, Hirsch was executed by the silk-hatted, gloved headman of Plötzensee prison here at dawn. Beheaded at the same time was Oscar Denner, 20, also convicted of a political crime.

A government communique said that Hirsch was executed "for the law concerning explosives." "Hirsch came to Germany in behalf of a foreign group of traitors in order to commit crimes with explosives," said the communique. "Two infernal machines which were in his possession were liable to confiscation."

Carried Explosives

Hirsch was convicted last March of possessing explosives. German authorities asserted that, arrested at Stuttgart last December after arriving from Czechoslovakia, Hirsch possessed bombs with which he confessed he intended to take the life of a high official. Rumor, never confirmed, was that Fuehrer Adolf Hitler might be the official.

At the time of the conviction Hirsch was described as "a stateless Jew." But his case was a strange one. He had never lived in the United States. But his grandfather was a naturalized American. The grandfather returned from the United States to his native Germany. There his son, Hirsch's father, was born. This son likewise went to the United States and, his citizenship

BELL TELEPHONE RATE CASE NEAR HEARINGS AGAIN

COLUMBUS, June 4.—(UP)—Hearings on the 13-year-old Ohio Bell Telephone rate case probably will be started before the state public utilities commission within a month, Charles Schaber, chairman, announced today.

His announcement was made after a conference with Randolph Elide, Cleveland, president of the Bell Company, and Frank Stephens, Cleveland, vice president.

In setting aside the Ohio Supreme court's ruling which upheld the utilities commission's $18,000,000 refund order (including interest), the U. S. Supreme court held that lack of detailed evidence in support of valuations had amounted to a denial of a fair trial to the company.

Jerome Peters and His Work in County Recalled

Man, 89, Taught in Old District School; Other Notes

By S. D. FRIDLEY

Eighty years ago when a 9-year-old boy hopped on a horse-drawn load of corn at his Dad's home and farm, that's what all the boys were doing then, and it wasn't news. But if one of these same boys 80 years later, took a notion he would better go to town, 'cause he had business there, and hop a passing motor truck loaded with corn, and ride to Ashville, that's news. We are telling you about our only living school teacher of some 65 years ago, Jerome Peters. He taught then in the "old home district" in Madison township, 1 1/2 miles west of Marcy and he kept us all on the spot, but without that old reliable hickory in use very much in those days. We were all good kids. I guess, because out of the 15 in our class they are all in heaven, but three of us. No, we are not so certain about what's left, will just have to take our chances with the rest of you. But before we are through with Mr. Peters, want to tell you about his teaching where real live Indians were plentiful. He taught at Rock Bluff, Neb., in 1870-71, the home of his sister, Mrs. William Cole. Indians, in droves, (ponies, tents and all) passed his school house frequently, but did no one any harm—except the frightened ones they left behind.

George Karb Best
Met a very interesting gentleman on the street the fore part of the week and seeing he was a stranger (to me at least) proceeded to find a story he might have sticking around and not in use. After asking a few questions found that he was not "boiled hard", but a real fine, kindly disposed person. Digging in a little deeper found that he and the wife were visiting at the home of his son-in-law and daughter Peter and Mrs. Johnson. Told me they had been residents of Columbus for many years, he being the coachman and gardener for Banker Sessions for 39 years. "How about your Capital City Mayors?" we asked him, and without any hesitation, he replied "Mayor George Karb was best of all."

Griffiths Guests
Among the recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Griffith were Mr. and Mrs. Summerhays, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Rose and son Eddie, Rev. and Mrs. John Griffith, Mrs. Mary Marvin, Clara Stelhorn and daughter Barbara.

Another girl, Ginger Wyatt, 19, made an affidavit saying Wallace Beery, the actor, had "rescued" her from the party. Beery, she said, was an invited guest but was not in harmony with the party. She described it as "the wildest, most drunken and worst party I ever saw."

The girls said they answered the studio's call thinking they were reporting to work. When they reached the ranch and found it decorated like a miners camp of the '49' days, with champagne and whiskey on the tables, they still thought it was to be just a "mob scene" before the cameras, they said.

They soon learned, however, that they had been imported as real life entertainers, the girls said, and the boisterous sales executives began plying them with liquor and forcing amorous attentions on them.

APPLE GROWERS ARE ASKED TO STATE MEETING

COLUMBUS, June 4: All Ohio apple growers are invited to attend a meeting the afternoon of June 16 in the Horticulture Building, Ohio State University, to discuss means of informing the public of the value of apples as a food, according to W. D. Hibish, Painesville, secretary of the Ohio Apple Institute.

F. H. Beach, specialist in horticulture, Ohio State University, says Mr. Hibish is right about the need for organized campaign to tell people about Ohio apples. Mr. Beach states that advertising campaigns conducted by the growers of other kinds of fruit have about erased the thought of apples from the minds of people who are searching for vitamins.

The specialist contends that Ohio grows just as good vitamins as any other state and that eating apples is one of the most pleasant ways to keep the body in tune that has been discovered. Old-timers admitted this and coined the phrase, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," but the present generation has lost touch with old principles.

Mr. Hibish urges as many growers as possible to attend the meeting in Columbus as the plans developed there for advertising the apple crop of Ohio will be based upon the response of the men who produce the apples. Conditions in orchards now indicate a bountiful supply of fine fruit; but it will have to be placed in the hands of consumers before the grower can pay his production costs and the consumer can get his share of this healthful food.

The officers of the Ohio Apple Institute are H. L. Mantle, Painesville, president, L. B. Yapple, Chillicothe, vice-president, and W. B. Baughman, New Concord treasurer. It is expected that a board of trustees made up of men from all sections of the state will be selected as the campaign for the consumption of apples gets under way.

Phone Ashville 79

Eighty years ago when a 9-year-old boy hopped on a horse-drawn load of corn at his Dad's home and farm, that's what all the boys were doing then, and it wasn't news. But if one of these same boys 80 years later, took a notion he would better go to town, 'cause he had business there, and hop a passing motor truck loaded with corn, and ride to Ashville, that's news. We are telling you about our only living school teacher of some 65 years ago, Jerome Peters. He taught there in the "old home district" in Madison township, 1½ miles west of Marcy and he kept us all on the spot, but without that old reliable hickory in use very much in those days. We were all good kids. I guess, because out of the 15 in our class they are all in heaven, but three of us. No, we are not so certain about what's left, will just have to take our chances with the rest of you. But before we are through with Mr. Peters, want to tell you about his teaching where real live Indians were plentiful. He taught at Rock Bluff, Neb., in 1870-71, the home of his sister, Mrs. William Cole. Indians, in droves, (ponies, tents and all) passed his school house frequently, but did no one any harm—except the frightened ones left behind.

George Karb Best

Met a very interesting gentleman on the street the fore part of the week and seeing he was a stranger (to me at least) proceeded to find a story he might have sticking around and not in use. After asking a few questions found that he was not "boiled hard", but a real fine, kindly disposed person. Digging in a little deeper found that he and the wife were visiting at the home of his son-in-law and daughter Peter and Mrs. Johnson. Told me they had been residents of Columbus for many years, he being the coachman and gardener for Banker Sessions for 39 years. "How about your Capital City Mayors?" we asked him, and without any hesitation, he replied "Mayor George Karb was best of all."

Griffiths Guests

Among the recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Griffith were Mr. and Mrs. Summerhays, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Rose and son Eddie, Rev. and Mrs. John Griffith, Mrs. Mary Marvin, Clara Stelhorn and daughter Barbara.

Constance Bennett will be the dramatic guest star in the Sunday night hour, June 6. She plays opposite Don Ameche in a dramatic scene. The musical guest star is Ray Middleton, baritone.

W. C. Fields, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Dorothy Lamour, and Musical Director Werner Janssen complete the lineup for the full hour broadcast of radio's "big show" over the NBC red network at 7 p. m. (EST).

Fields, who demonstrated his comedy genius by making a resounding hit in his very first broadcast, again will be featured in a spot with Charlie McCarthy, his white pine nemesis, the ventriloquist's wooden dummy who has won the hearts of radio listeners.

Ray Middleton, twice before featured on the big Sunday night variety program, returns as a guest in this broadcast.

The big musical number, planned by Werner Janssen for this show, is Nathaniel Shilkret's "Negro Spirituals—a Paraphrase" which includes "I'll Hear the Trumpets Sound in the Morning," "Goin' to Shout All Over God's Heaven," and "Nobody Knows de Trouble I've Seen."

She will be interviewed on the broadcast over the NBC red network at 8:30 p. m. (EST). On the same program are Louise Massey and "The Westerners," singers of cow-boy songs; Emil Boreo, French comedian; the Shell Quartet and music by Ernie Watson and his "talking band."

APPLE GROWERS ARE ASKED TO STATE MEETING

COLUMBUS, June 4.—All Ohio apple growers are invited to attend a meeting the afternoon of June 16 in the Horticulture Building, Ohio State University, to discuss means of informing the public of the value of apples as a food, according to W. D. Hilbish, Painesville, secretary of the Ohio Apple Institute.

F. H. Beach, specialist in horticulture, Ohio State University, says Mr. Hilbish is right about the need for organized campaign to tell people about Ohio apples. Mr. Beach states that advertising campaigns conducted by the growers of other kinds of fruit have about erased the thought of apples from the minds of people who are searching for vitamins.

The specialist contends that Ohio grows just as good vitamins as any other state and that eating apples is one of the most pleasant ways to keep body in tune that has been discovered. Old-timers admitted this and coined the phrase, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," but the present generation has lost touch with old principles.

Mr. Hilbish urges as many growers as possible to attend the meeting in Columbus as the plans develop there for advertising the apple crop of Ohio will be based upon the response of the men who produce the apples. Conditions in orchards now indicate a bountiful supply of fine fruit—but it will have to be placed in the hands of consumers before the grower can pay his production costs and the consumer can get his share of this healthful food.

The officers of the Ohio Apple Institute are H. L. Mantle, Painesville, president, L. B. Yaple, Chillicothe, vice-president, and W. B. Baughman, New Concord treasurer. It is expected that a board of trustees made up of men from all sections of the state will be selected as the campaign for the consumption of apples gets under way.

Memorial Hall Work Tossed About For Year's Time

Should members of the city board of control have conferred with councilmen before they selected the type of spouting to be installed at Memorial Hall?

This question was tossed into the council session this week by Councilman Frank Marion. It brought on a lengthy discussion with councilmen finally agreeing that they should have the privilege of choosing between copper and galvanized equipment.

Bids were recently opened by the board of control, and the board decided on copper equipment. Floyd Dean was the lowest bidder. Two bids were submitted. Dean's were $950 for copper and $800 for galvanized iron. A. J. Lyle bid $1,039.50 for copper and $798.90 for galvanized equipment.

Against Added Expense
Marion said he believed it foolish to install copper, and that he was not in favor of the added expense. He said bids were asked for ingot galvanized iron and there was considerable difference between ingot iron and galvanized steel.

When Marion presented a motion that councilmen be granted the right to select materials, no opposing votes were heard.

The spouting problem for Memorial hall has been tossed about in council for about a year. Last year bids were asked, difficulties developed, and the improvement was tabled. Since that time the cost of copper has advanced in price.

Mayor Graham said the board considered it wise to select copper as it would last longer. Members of the board of control are the mayor, Charles Caskey, safety director, and J. F. Mavis, service director.

DEATH OF MOLA ENDS LOYALISTS IN BILBAO AREA

Defenders Begin Counter Attack Against Force
Of New General

FRANCO NAMES DAVILO

Rome Shocked By Airplane
Crash Disaster

HENDAYE, French - Spanish
Frontier, June 4.—(UP)—Basque loyalists, jubilant at the death of Gen. Emilio Mola, opened a general offensive on all fronts in the Bilbao area today in hope of smashing the nationalist siege.

Jose Antonio De Aguirre, president of the autonomous Basque loyalist republic, took the field himself and ordered his men to put everything they had into attacks in all sectors.

Basques were jubilant at the death of a man whom they hated —and believed to be the strongest man the nationalists could put in the field.

To Continue Bilbao Drive
Gen. Francisco Franco, nationalist commander in chief, named
Gen. Jose Fidel Davila, president of the technical commission in his governing junta, to succeed Mola on the Basque front and nationalists asserted that he would continue Mola's drive on Bilbao without pause.

But the Basques were encouraged by Mola's death and it seemed evident from nationalist dispatches that the general's death was a severe blow.

When news reached Bilbao last night of Mola's death, the Basque militiamen were already engaged in a series of important counter attacks in which, they asserted, they made important gains.

By turning these counter-attacks into a general attack President Aguirre believed he had a chance to turn back in rout the nationalist Spanish-Italian army that for two months has sought to break the militiamen's lines and reach Bilbao, key city of the Bay of Biscay coast.

Diplomatic reaction seemed to substantiate the idea that Mola's loss was a severe one.

Rome military and political quarters said frankly that they were shocked. Italians held Mola in the highest esteem and considered him the ablest military leader in the revolution—adding, diplomatically, that of course Dictator
Francisco Franco was excepted.

Lauded for Advance

These informants, intimately acquainted with the Bilbao front where Italians are active, attributed the quick advance of the nationalists on Bilbao largely to Mola's personal leadership. They said that his use of flanking movements particularly showed him to be a first rate strategist. It was added that Italians had every confidence in Davila, the new commander, because naturally Franco could be depended upon to make a good choice.

In Berlin, war office and propaganda ministry alike refused comment on the probabilities that might arise. All they would say was that Mola was a man of extraordinary mental equipment, known for calmness, coolness and clear thinking.

Questions and Answers

Is it possible to make fondant without cooking it? I have heard that it may be made by chilling thoroughly. Can you advise me about this?

Fondant may be made in an automatic refrigerator quickly. Use this recipe and method:

Refrigerator Fondant
1 egg white
1/2 tsp. water
1/2 tsp. vanilla
2 1/2 C. confectioners' sugar

Combine egg white, water, and vanilla in a bowl, and beat until well blended. Add sugar gradually until mixture is very stiff.
Knead with hands until smooth.
Wrap in wax paper and store in an automatic refrigerator to use as desired.

Strawberry Fondant may be made by coating ripe, unshelled strawberries with fondant, leaving the stems uncoated. Roll in powdered sugar and store in the refrigerator until serving time.

Chocolate nut cubes are made by combining fondant and chopped pecans. Cut into tiny cubes and dip in melted chocolate.

What is the best way to store
strawberries if purchased in quantities greater than enough for one serving?

To keep the strawberries firm and juicy, store them in the refrigerator in an open bowl, or in the wooden box in which they come.
They stay firm longer if washed only as needed. Good berries stored this way will keep firm for several days.

Do you have a recipe for a sour cream spice cake?

A special spice cake that may be served with an ice cream filling is made like this:

Spice Cake
2 C. flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. cloves
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 C. nuts
2 eggs
1 C. sugar
1 C. sour cream
1/2 tsp. soda

Sift flour, measure and sift twice with baking powder, salt and spices. Lightly mix in nuts. Beat eggs until light, add sugar and continue beating until thoroughly blended. Stir in the cream to which the soda has been added.
Add the dry ingredients, mixing until batter is smooth. Turn into oiled cup cake pans and bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for 20 minutes. If a loaf or layer cake is preferred, bake it at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

What are "cake" sandwiches?
Are they sandwiches or cakes?

Cake sandwiches are sandwiches made from cake used as a base instead of breadstuffs. Fillings are usually of fruit, cream, cheese, custards, or nuts. Cake that is not too fresh may be sliced, cut into fancy shapes, and filled or frosted with the desired filling to moisten and freshen. This is a dessert-time suggestion that fills a need for using left-overs.

BEARD, FORMER FOOTBALL STAR, DIES FOR CRIME

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., June 4.—
(UP)—Dwight Beard, 27, who once employed his fighting nature to a college football team, and later to a career of robbery and murder, was put to death early today in the electric chair at the Texas penitentiary.

He walked into the execution chamber and sat down with calm resignation although he never admitted his guilt and two nights ago made a desperate attempt to escape by means of an imitation gun he whittled out of soap.

He was a husky from the North Carolina mountains and once was a linesman on the University of North Carolina football team. His criminal depredations started latter, while he was a forest ranger.
He spent three years at school studying forestry and engineering.
His first recorded offense was the theft of a pig.

30 Wounds Boasted
A bully by nature, he boasted of 30 wounds he received in gun fights with police in southern cities, including Atlanta, Ga. He was executed for murdering John Roberts, former Dallas policeman, during a holdup two days before Christmas, 1935. Once he was sentenced to death for murder in North Carolina. Sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and he escaped to resume his lawless ways.

He said he once attended a football game in a city where police were hunting him, and another time joined a posse to help hunt himself.

Asked if he had a last statement
he replied to Warden W. W. Wald:
"I wish to say that another man committed this crime. He is in Arlington, Tex., now. In North Carolina another boy committed the crime for which I was sentenced to prison."

Is it possible to make fondant without cooking it? I have heard that it may be made by chilling thoroughly. Can you advise me about this?

Fondant may be made in an automatic refrigerator quickly. Use this recipe and method:

Refrigerator Fondant

1 egg white
1/2 Tbsp. water
3/4 tsp. vanilla
2 1/2 C. confectioners' sugar

Combine egg white, water, and vanilla in a bowl, and beat until well blended. Add sugar gradually until mixture is very stiff. Knead with hands until smooth. Wrap in wax paper and store in an automatic refrigerator to use as desired.

Strawberry Fondant may be made by coating ripe, unblemished strawberries with fondant, leaving the stems uncoated. Roll in powdered sugar and store in the refrigerator until serving time.

Chocolate nut cubes are made by combining fondant and chopped pecans. Cut into tiny cubes and dip in melted chocolate.

What is the best way to store strawberries if purchased in quantities greater than enough for one serving?

To keep the strawberries firm and juicy, store them in the refrigerator in an open bowl, or in the wooden box in which they come. They stay firm longer if washed only as needed. Good berries stored this way will keep firm for several days.

Do you have a recipe for a sour cream spice cake?

A special spice cake that may be served with an ice cream filling is made like this:

Spice Cake

2 C. flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt
1 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. cloves
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
1/4 C. nutmeats
2 eggs
1 C. sugar
1 C. sour cream
1/2 tsp. soda

Sift flour, measure and sift twice with baking powder, salt and spices. Lightly mix in nuts. Beat eggs until light, add sugar and continue beating until thoroughly blended. Stir in the cream to which the soda has been added. Add the dry ingredients, mixing until batter is smooth. Turn into oiled cake pans and bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for 20 minutes. If a loaf or layer cake is preferred, bake it at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

What are "cake" sandwiches? Are they sandwiches or cakes?

Cake sandwiches are sandwiches made from cake used as a base instead of breadstuffs. Fillings are usually of fruit, cream cheese, frostings, or nuts. Cake that is not too fresh may be sliced, cut into fancy shapes, and filled or frosted with the desired filling to moisten and freshen. AL BRADY, MODEL YOUNG MAN, HUNTED AS NEWEST PUBLIC ENEMY NO.

SEVEN ROBBERY FORAYS RESULT IN BAD RECORD

Indiana Farm Youth Never Swore or Drank Before Changing His Life

WOMEN BRING ARREST

Crimes In Two States Put Against Bandits

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 4.—Al Brady, not so long ago an Indiana farm youth who neither swore nor drank, has been chalked up as Public Enemy No. 1, succeeding the late John Dillinger, as far as middle western law enforcement officers are concerned.

The Brady gang, now comprised of three men who are accused of murdering four persons and injuring several others, is quicker to shoot to kill than the Dillinger gangsters were at the height of their power, according to Capt. Matt Leach of the Indiana state police.

Captain Leach was marked for death because of the persistency with which he dogged the trail of the Dillinger gang. But the Dillingers were all mowed down by G-men bullets or electrocuted at the hands of the law before they could carry out their threats.

Wanton Gang
The Brady gang, in some seven bank robbery and jewelry robbery forays in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, has been characterized by the utter wantonness with which it kills police officers. Captain Leach declares it is equipped with the following devices:

Short wave radio sets tuned to police network broadcasts.

The fastest, light automobiles made, with additional gas tanks for long cruising.

Machine guns capable of firing 900 bullets a minute and of the same type as used by the United States army.

The gang "cases" the bank or jewelry store to be robbed, maps the getaway route, drives over it in rehearsal, and "holes up" within an hour and a half after the first alarm is sounded.

The Brady mob has powerful lawyer connections. It was able to engineer a change of venue from Indianapolis to Greenfield, where its three members escaped from jail.

According to police, the gang, consisting of Brady, the leader; James Dalhove, formerly of Madison, Ind., and Clarence Lee Shaffer of Indianapolis, has engaged in the following outrages:

The end of John Dillinger's career as Public Enemy No. 1.

Al Brady is headed for the same kind of "finish".

of Indianapolis, has engaged in the following outrages:

Their Record

Edward Liney, of Piqua, O., was mowed down and killed when he inadvertently stepped into a room where a Brady holdup was in progress.

Patrolman Edward Swaney, of Lima, O., received a broken neck, but lived, when his automobile overturned in a gun battle, after the Brady gang had robbed the Kay jewelry store of that city for a second time.

Sergeant Richard Rivers, of the Indianapolis force, was shot to death when he surprised the Brady gang as it sought medical attention for Charles Geisking, one of its early members, at the home of a south side Indianapolis physician, following the Lima jewelry store holdup.

Brady and Dalhove are accused by Capt. William Russell of the Anderson police with the slaying of Patrolman Frank Levy as they lay in wait to rob the treasurer of the Elks club in that city.

The Brady gangsters beat Sheriff Clarence Watson, of Greenfield, Ind., insensible with an iron bar, and escaped from jail there.

Indiana State Policeman Paul Minneman was shot 24 times in the abdomen, lungs and liver by the Brady gang and killed near Royal Center, Ind., following the Goodland, Ind., bank robbery.

Cass County Deputy Sheriff Elmer Craig was shot in the shoulder and foot and injured by 53 machine gun bullets fired into Minneman's automobile.

The abandon with which the Brady gangsters cross state lines with stolen automobiles and transmit stolen jewelry and loot interstate has brought federal department of justice agents into the manhunt.

Women Their Downfall

Women led to the capture of the Brady gang some time ago. But its members won freedom in the battle with Hancock Sheriff Watson. They were captured when a woman, whom police identified as Mrs. Margaret Barry Larson of Chicago, insisted that Brady pass another night in a Chicago apartment hotel with her. Police found the heavily equipped arsenal in the gang car in front of the hotel and captured Brady and Mrs. Larson. Mrs. Larson who, police said, left her husband in the whirl of the Mardi Gras at New Orleans to join Brady, was held under $25,000 bond in Indianapolis for a time. She is quoted by police as saying:

"Brady gave me a diamond ring and I always considered we were married. Brady was too kind-hearted to hurt anyone. I love him. I'll go to jail with him. I'll go to hell with him if necessary. I'm going to marry him."

She was released from custody and is reported to be working in a tavern in South Chicago.

Dalhove, dressed as a teamster, was arrested when he kept a "date" with Mrs. Marie (Babel) Meyers, a Chicago divorcee. She later fled to Wisconsin, police said. Dalhove declared that a rival gang hi-jacked them out of $50,000 in jewelry loot.

Brady and Dalhove squawked on Shaffer, 21, youngest member of the gang. He was caught in Indianapolis reading a detective story magazine in his grandparent's yard. He put the finger on Brady and Dalhove for the Police, man Levy murder, officers said, and disclosed an arsenal in Indianapolis that rivaled the heavy arms of the Dillinger gang.

Ex-Pal Is Bitter

Charles Geisking, Indianapolis hoodlum, was betrayed by a woman and arrested. He told police he operated on his own leg with a penknife, using alcohol for a deadening agent. He, alone, of the Brady gang, remains in custody. "I hope they kill Brady, Dalhove and Shaffer," Geisking said bitterly.

"It was not a matter of life or death in the slaying of any of the officers as far as the Brady gangsters were concerned," Captain Leach observes.

"In each of the instances the officers were ambushed and wantonly slain. Other officers who were killed, we anticipate, before the gang is captured, Brady once said that he had set out to outdo John Dillinger.

"The stage is set. In time he will get what Dillinger got but we don't know the hour. The road that the Brady gang has chosen leads to the turnstiles of hell."

And, police grimly point out, youth who try to emulate these gangsters will find no glory in it—merely sordidness and an early death.

4-H CLUB NEWS

The "Darbyville Hustlers" 4-H club organized Wednesday evening naming the following officers: Ernest Ankrom, president; James Kennedy, vice president; Laurence Reid, secretary and treasurer, and Carol Reid, reporter. Joseph McKinley was named club leader.

Fourteen boys attended the organization meeting, held in the Mublenberg township school.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, June 8.

Nine youths re-organized the Logan Elm 4-H club, Thursday evening, at a meeting at the Pickaway

The following officers were elected: Robert Liston, president; Orin Dreisbach Jr., vice president; John Penn, secretary-treasurer; Neil Leist, recreation leader; Russell Liston, reporter, and Lloyd Leist, recreation leader. Other members of the club are Jimmy Wolford, Kenneth Timmons, and Merle Stant. At the Cliftona Theatre

"Elephant Boy." Alexander Korda's film version of Rudyard Kipling's "Toomai of the Elephants," in which the Cliftona Theatre tonight for 2 days.

Filmed in the course of a two-year expedition into the heart of the Indian jungles, headed by Robert Flaherty, famous explorer-director who gave us the memorable "Nanook of the North," "Moana," "Tabu" and "Man of Aran," and his co-director, Zoltan Korda, "Elephant Boy" is described as one of the most thrilling natural background pictures ever to reach the screen.

The picture introduces a new type of screen team in Sabu, the handsome 12-year-old native Indian boy who plays the title role, and Ravatha, who is said to be the world's largest elephant.

Even the magic-working "prop men" of Hollywood, who can locate any known gadget needed in a film within an hour, can't provide the most essential need of stunt fliers who make aerial thrills for the movies. The need is "crash weather," and it is a rare commodity.

In the thrilling adventure picture "Border Flight," now showing at the Circle Theatre, "crash weather" was awaited for two weeks before Paul Mantz, stunt pilot, undertook a dangerous "belly landing" which appears near the opening of the film. To cut down hazard of the stunt, Mantz wanted a day without any breeze, with just enough sun, and with dry ground. Cameramen wanted clouds, to help perspective.

FRIGID WEATHER NOT STRANGE IN MONTH OF JUNE

Is your winter underwear stored where you can find it quickly in case the weather goes on a rampage?

Files of The Circleville Herald show one of the worst frosts in local weather history occurred on June 7, 1912.

Dr. H. R. Clarke was weatherman at that time, and a heavy loser in the weather prank. He lost an acre of potato plants.

The highest recording on June 6 was 71 degrees. During the night the mercury tumbled to 36 degrees. Melon vines, tomatoes, beans, potatoes and numerous other garden plants were killed or damaged. Heaviest losses occurred in lowlands. The frost followed an unusually dry season, or heavier damage would have resulted.

Older records show a frost so severe that corn was damaged, occurred in Pickaway county in 1850. The date was June 6.

Dr. Clarke added another June frost record. He said in 1856 a frost hit this district nipping the corn. Farmers used sheep shears to snip off the top of the damaged corn stalks.

"That corn grew out just as good as the corn that wasn't frosted," he added.

OPEN LETTERS

TO FRANK W. TURNER

HIGHWAY OFFICIAL: Your work in gaining federal approval for improvement of Route 22, west of Circleville, will be remembered by Circleville and Pickaway county residents who are forced to detour everytime the Scioto river inundates the highway. For many years, business and civic organizations have been striving for an improvement that would be permanent. For the same number of years, unfilled promises have been given Circleville, and we are still waiting. Now it appears that something will actually be done, and all of us appreciate your efforts. It may be a year before actual work starts, but, since the big program has been put on the schedule and money has been set aside, it is almost certain the job will be done. Again, thanks to you! Circleville council might show its appreciation by granting the request of the local highway department that water be piped to its garage for fire protection. The request was passed up like a hot potato several weeks ago.

CIRCUITEER

TO SCOUT WORKERS

FOLK: A concerted drive has been started in Circleville and Pickaway county to obtain $600 to finance the district's share of expense in operating the Central Ohio Area Council. In return for this money, boys of the city and county receive efficient and capable supervision by trained executives. The success of this campaign, which is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, depends entirely on how much effort the solicitors expend in making their calls. Some solicitors for other causes have been known to express their interest, be assigned some cards, and then forget about making the calls. The amount of enthusiasm shown at the Early Bird breakfast, Wednesday, leads me to believe that this campaign will not be a failure. The future of every boy in Pickaway county may be affected by success or failure of the campaign.

CIRCUITEER

TO JACOB TOWERS

DEAR SIR: Congratulations on your appointment to West Point military academy. It is a great honor to receive such an appointment. Circleville residents are proud to send a representative to the academy. I wish you the best of luck.

CIRCUITEER

TO HIGH GRADUATES

BOYS, GIRLS: Tonight you will bid farewell to Circleville schools after 12 years of classes. Some of you have worked diligently, while others have "just gotten by". Many of you considered your tasks difficult, but in the years to come you will find that school was a pleasure compared with duties you have to perform. If at all possible, I urge you to seek higher education. The demand today is for persons with college degrees, although many high school graduates have proven successful in jobs that collegians could not hold. However, a four-year, or even a two-year course, in a college would better train you for the future. The parents of many of you have done yeoman work in an effort to finance your way through high school. Now that you are about to start making your own way in the world, I suggest your first thoughts be for them, and what you can do to help them.

CIRCUITEER

TO CITY OFFICIALS

MAYOR, ET AL: The condition of streets in the New Addition, embracing Montclair avenue, Beverly road, Guilford road and N. Pickaway streets, deserves a tour by all persons responsible. The Rocky Mountains cannot possibly be rougher, and neither can the Pacific ocean produce bigger waves than these courses of travel provide. This addition has become one of Circleville's show places, but how can it be shown when automobile traffic is defied by rocks and ditches that predominate? Why not do something about it?

CIRCUITEER

TO SCHOOL OFFICIALS

FRIENDS: The Circleville board of education deserves congratulations for re-employing the superintendent, principal and the entire staff of teachers now on the payroll. Circleville schools are well-conducted, programs put into operation by Frank Fischer are working out in the desired manner, and his administration has been above reproach in every respect. I am very confident of the future success of our school system.

CIRCUITEER

TO CHILDREN

YOUNGSTERS: With the arrival of warm weather, many of you are heading for your old swimming holes, and a warning at this time should not go amiss. Do not swim in ponds, creeks or places where the depth is unknown, and you are not well acquainted with the location. Diving into strange pools may cause you injury and possible death. Take no chances and disregard "dares." Swim with older persons.

TO CITY OFFICIALS

GENTLEMEN: Why not keep the water running at the drinking fountain of city hall? There is nothing refreshing in a drink of warm water. The fountain was kept running until someone complained about the water bill. Arrangements could be worked out for the fountain to be turned off at night. That would mean a saving. At present, residents who want a cool drink have to hold the valve open until the water becomes cool. It appears there is very little being saved under the present arrangement.

DRIVERS: Many warnings have been sent to you. If an accident is prevented, they have not been in vain. This week Circleville's school children will start their summer vacation period. We have no municipal playground. Many of them will be playing on the streets. Remember that for the last nine months these children have been in school, and they were not on the streets at all hours of the day. Slow down your speed and drive as carefully as possible.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

The war in Spain has just illustrated again how difficult it is for the United States to remain neutral when hostilities break out somewhere else in the world — hostilities that Uncle Sam has no interest in and devoutly wishes to keep out of.

To begin with, our neutrality legislators enacted a law banning shipments of American supplies to belligerents involving two or more foreign countries. There was more to it than that, but the nub of it was that we did not propose to be drawn into any international muddle. International! Get that?

Immediately afterward Spain's civil strife started. Internal strife! Not international. At least, at that stage of the game the fighting was supposed to be purely internal.

LAW DID NOT FIT
Well, our law did not fit that kind of a conflict.

Opposing factions within one country were entitled, regardless of our international prohibition, to buy from us the wherewithal to slaughter one another.

True, we belatedly amended our enactment to cover Spain's case.

It was done only by the skin of our teeth, however. And, even so, it remains possible for some country, other than Spain, to buy fire arms here and trans-ship them to Spaniards — loyalist or rebel.

INTERNATIONAL FIGHT
Subsequently it has developed that the Spanish trouble is not, in reality, civil.

Britain, France and Russia favor the Spanish loyalists.

Italy and Germany favor the Spanish rebels.

These five countries have pretended to maintain a policy of joint neutrality in Spain, but everyone knows that that has been largely hypocritical.

Maybe there has been a modicum of good faith as to Britain, France and Russia. Italy and Germany notoriously have been helping the Spanish rebels; of late they have been helping the latter avowedly — as "reprisals".

SPAIN THE BATTLEGROUND
In short, the Spanish loyalists have recognized the Germans and Italians as enemies — by shooting at them.

The Germans have retaliated, and the Italians support them.

It is, in effect, a war between the Spanish loyalists, backed by Britain, France and Russia, and the Spanish rebels, backed by Italy and Germany.

Or, putting it another way: It is a war for Spain between Britain, France and Russia versus Italy and Germany.

A DIFFICULT SITUATION
But Britain, France and Russia have been fairly circumpet.

It is difficult for Uncle Sam to shut off THEIR supplies on the ground that they will pass them on to the Spanish loyalists.

On the opposite hand, everyone with an ounce of sense is aware that Italy and Germany are passing on help to the Spanish rebels. Then, what is Uncle Sam to do?

Ban shipments to everybody, as belligerents in general? — when he isn't sure that Britain, France and Russia are on a belligerent status, as well as Italy and Germany?

Or ban shipments exclusively to Italy and Germany? — thereby implying that they alone are the mischief-makers?

Uncle Samuel cannot help taking sides, either way.

READ THIS FIRST:

Sandy and Marcia had met quite by accident near the home of the girl's grandmother in southern California. He is an advertising executive who has just established his own firm and she is a talented commercial artist employed by a rival firm in Los Angeles. After a week they fall in love. When Marcia shows so much enthusiasm for her work that Sandy feels her love for him is secondary, they part in a huff and return separately to Los Angeles. Let us believe that the two partners during her vacation, Sandy becomes furious when he learns Marcia is working on the same account on which he has pinned high hopes. Marcia's firm wins the coveted account but she feels badly because of Sandy's loss and goes to see him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 12

WITH SOME foreboding Marcia took the elevator to the fourth floor of the Typecraft building and found her way to room 413, where gleaming new letters proclaimed "Sullivan & Knight, Inc., Advertising." Taking a deep breath she opened the door, and surprised Sandy with his elbows on his desk and his head despondently settled between his two hands.

"Hello, thinker," she said with more bravado than she felt.

"Why, Marcia," Sandy stood up with a glad smile, a smile that turned into an embarrassed grin. "I guess I know why you've come, but don't rub it in."

"Idiot. I came to ask you to take me to lunch," she began tactfully. "I've missed you, Sandy."

"And I've missed you. But it isn't human to be with you, Marcia, and not try to win you away from old Abe."

"Are you trying to offer me a job with Sullivan & Knight, Inc.?" she mocked, purposely misunderstanding his inference. "Seriously though, Sandy, you do need a woman's touch in this office. You'd be surprised how much a woman's much vaunted intuition can help you on copy ideas."

"I was afraid you'd get around to the Char-Ming account I lost and that's that, but when I do get an account it will be on merit, not underhanded A-B-Z methods. I wish you wouldn't talk about it, Marcia," he said quickly and refused to elucidate the meaning of his cryptic statement.

"Well, it's a darned shame," she said sympathetically, "but honestly we did spend a lot of time and money on our presentation. Besides, Abe had an 'in' with old Thornton."

"Let's go to lunch," he countered abruptly. Through the next hour they talked of unimportant things, Sandy cleverly steering the conversation away from personal or business subjects.

"Well, that doesn't leave us much to talk about except the weather," Marcia said after one such foray when Sandy had turned the conversation neatly. "Sandy, I can't understand you. I thought you said we were to be friendly enemies, at least."

"That's right. But honestly, Marcia, I still think it would be better if we didn't see each other. Not for a while, until you make up your mind that I am more important to you than your career — or until I make up my mind I'd rather have a half-time wife than none at all. It isn't fair."

Marcia almost told him he hadn't pressed his suit very ardently of late, but some latent pride made her hold her tongue. Never, she thought, would she throw herself at any man. But if he did propose on the same terms as before, what could she say but "No, not yet."

"Yes, maybe the game isn't worth the candle," she said bitterly. "You've run out on me twice during our brief friendship, but I'm not giving you a chance to do it again. Goodbye, Mr. Knight. I'll leave you this time, and save you the trouble. And I'm glad we took the Char-Ming account away from you. Maybe you'll go back to San Francisco and find some sweet little clinging vine to plant in the so-called garden of your heart. A rock garden!"

Furiously, she got up and left him at the tiny table. Her anger was increased because she realized once again that if he had declared his love directly, things might somehow have turned out differently. This business of saying, "I wouldn't dare ask you again, it isn't fair" — that was no way to solve a problem, or to win a wife. Either you do or you don't, she mused, even while she realized that Sandy feared to risk a final "No" if he should ask and be refused.

Walking down Ninth street toward her office, her heels clicked a rat-a-tat-tat: you-do-or-you-don't, it isn't fair, it isn't fair, do-or-don't, isn't fair. Was there no way out?

Marcia faced the future with undisciplined dread. Life had lost its glamor with old Abe, the crazy driver, Sandy afraid to speak his mind, and both her private and her business life in a state of turmoil.

Ellen came in to interrupt her bitter reverie, and sat down on a high stool. Marcia, in her rust-toned smock with the sunlight caressing her coppery hair, was a picture of despair. Frankly, she turned to her friend.

"Ellen, I can't understand myself. Ever since I've been crazy about advertising as a profession, and suddenly it has lost all its glamor. I just don't give a hang about all this," and her hand described a sweeping arc to take in all her work.

"Why, Marcia. I should think you'd be happier than ever, now. What's the trouble?"

"Man trouble."

"Oh, I see. Well, my dear, there are very few of us women who can combine marriage and a career — and even fewer men are willing to let you try it. Personally, I'm inclined to think they're right. To be a success at creative work such as you do, you must live it and love it. Not many men are willing to share your love, even with a job."

"But Ellen, Sandy — why won't he let me try it? I'd be willing to give up if I found we couldn't be happy."

Ellen shook her head. "Sandy is wiser than that. Marcia, he knows himself, knows his own nature would be the first obstacle to happiness. You know, women can be divided into two classes — those whose first interest is a man and a home, and those who can be content with work. And most men are alike: they want the undivided attention of the woman they marry. I just wish someone would want to take me away from this crazy-go-round. There aren't enough brass rings on it to suit me."

Marcia looked at her friend in amazement, for the moment taken out of her own worries. The revelation of Ellen's secret heart was startling. "Too bad we can't change places," Marcia began, then corrected herself hurriedly, "not that I'd let you have Sandy. But there must be other men."

"I'll leave you, myself."

"Sure, several million of them, according to the last census. But do you want me to advertise for one? You don't know how lucky you are, Marcia, to have a good man crazy about you. And personally I think you're a fool to let him slip through your fingers. If you're set on this darned career of yours and if you think that will be good company for the long evenings and the years ahead, why go to it. But for your sake, I hope your Sandy is still around when you finally come to your senses and decide he is more important than all your fame and dollars. Oh—"

Ellen rushed from the room, ashamed of her outburst. Marcia was shocked at the admissions she had made, yet the philosophy she preached seemed to make her own problems the harder.

If Sandy was physically incapable of accepting a so-called "part time wife", that meant that she, Marcia, would have to do all the sacrificing to make their happiness possible. If she did give up the work she loved, she realized that they would start their married life under a cloud: he feeling the burden of her sacrifice, she resenting the need for it.

Again she reached an impasse in her reasoning. There seemed no way out until one or the other of them changed fundamentally.

Hartley came into her office without knocking, startling her out of her reverie. "Marcia, you've been evading me lately, and I don't know why. I haven't done anything to offend you, have I?"

"Why no, Mr. Hartley. I've just been busy."

"And by the way, did you know my name to my friends is Walt? Why not call a truce on all this wildness, get another girl and go with me and Tony Elliot to some of the bright spots tonight? You look as if you could do with a little gaiety. What's the verdict?"

She was about to refuse, remembering the first time she had let him drive her home and caught a hint of his unscrupulous inner self beneath the mask of urbanity. Then she thought of Ellen. Here was a chance to give her friend some much needed male companionship and to take her mind off her own troubles. On the spur of the moment, she replied, "All right, why not? I'll get Ellen, and you may pick us up at my apartment at 9."

Systematic Exercises That Benefit Muscles

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THOSE WHO wish to develop all the muscles in the body systematically and equally, will probably not go in very much for games or sports. Games or sports develop the body generally, but not every group of muscles is brought into play in any one exercise.

Muscle groups of the body are those of: (1) the neck; (2) the shoulder girdle; (3) the upper arm; (4) the lower arm; (5) the back; (6) the abdomen; (7) the upper leg, and (8) the lower leg. Exercises which will do something to every one of these groups are as follows:

(1) The Neck: Standing erect, bend the head forward and backward, as far to the left side as possible and then as far to the right side as possible. Then rotate, looking first to the right and then to the left.

(2) The Shoulder Girdle: Standing erect with the arms straight out from the sides, move them in a circular fashion, so that the tips of the fingers describe a circle. Standing erect with the arms at the sides of the body, move them in a wide circle until they meet over the top of the head.

(3) The Upper Arm: With the arms extended in front of the body, bend the elbow 20 times. Repeat with the arms extended straight out to the side from the shoulders.

(4) The Forearm: With the arms extended, move the hands up and down, 20 to 40 times, and then allow the hands to describe a circle, 20 times.

(5) The Back: Standing erect, lean over and touch your toes with your fingers, 20 times. With the back in the erect position, lean to the side until your finger tips touch the knee on each side 20 times. Lie down on the floor, face down, and raise yourself on your hands, up and down, 20 times.

(6) The Abdomen: Lie on the back, raise the head so that it looks at the toes, 20 times. Then raise the feet, with the knees stiff, until they point towards the ceiling, 20 times. Bend the knees so that the thighs touch the abdomen, 20 times.

(7) The Upper Leg: Stand erect, rise on your toes, and then squat on your heels, 20 times.

(8) The Lower Leg: Stand erect, rise on your toes, 20 times. Stand erect, rise on your heels, 20 times.

OPEN LETTERS

TO FRANK W. TURNER
HIGHWAY OFFICIAL: Your work in gaining federal approval for improvement of Route 22, west of Circleville, will be remembered by Circleville and Pickaway county residents who are forced to detour everytime the Scioto river inundates the highway. For many years, business and civic organizations have been striving for an improvement that would be permanent. For the same number of years, unfilled promises have been given Circleville, and we are still waiting. Now it appears that something will actually be done, and all of us appreciate your efforts. It may be a year before actual work starts, but, since the big program has been put on the schedule and money has been set aside, it is almost certain the job will be done. Again, thanks to you! Circleville council might show its appreciation by granting the request of the local highway department that water be piped to its garage for fire protection. The request was passed up like a hot potato several weeks ago.

TO SCOUT WORKERS
FOLK: A concerted drive has been started in Circleville and Pickaway county to obtain $600 to finance the district's share of expense in operating the Central Ohio Area Council. In return for this money, boys of the city and county receive efficient and capable supervision by trained executives. The success of this campaign, which is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, depends entirely on how much effort the solicitors expend in making their calls. Some solicitors for other causes have been known to express their interest, be assigned some cards, and then forget about making the calls. The amount of enthusiasm shown at the Early Bird breakfast, Wednesday, leads me to believe that this campaign will not be a failure. The future of every boy in Pickaway county may be affected by success or failure of the campaign.
CIRCUITEER

TO JACOB TOWERS
DEAR SIR: Congratulations on your appointment to West Point military academy. It is a great honor to receive such an appointment. Circleville residents are proud to send a representative to the academy. I wish you the best of luck.
CIRCUITEER

TO HIGH GRADUATES
BOYS, GIRLS: Tonight you will bid farewell to Circleville schools after 12 years of classes. Some of you have worked diligently, while others have "just gotten by". Many of you considered your tasks difficult, but in the years to come you will find that school was a pleasure compared with duties you have to perform. If at all possible, I urge you to seek higher education. The demand today is for persons with college degrees, although many high school graduates have proven successful in jobs that collegians could not hold. However, a four-year, or even a two-year course, in a college would better train you for the future. The parents of many of you have done yeoman work in an effort to finance your way through high school. Now that you are about to start making your own way in the world, I suggest your first thoughts be for them, and what you can do to help them.

CIRCUITEER

TO CITY OFFICIALS
MAYOR, ET AL: The condition of streets in the New Addition, embracing Montclair avenue, Beverly road, Guilford road and N. Pickaway streets, deserves a tour by all persons responsible. The Rocky Mountains cannot possibly be rougher, and neither can the Pacific ocean produce bigger waves than these courses of travel provide. This addition has become one of Circleville's show places, but how can it be shown when automobile traffic is defied by rocks and ditches that predominate? Why not do something about it?
CIRCUITEER

TO SCHOOL OFFICIALS
FRIENDS: The Circleville board of education deserves congratulations for re-employing the superintendent, principal and the entire staff of teachers now on the payroll. Circleville schools are well-conducted, programs put into operation by Frank Fischer are working out in the desired manner, and his administration has been above reproach in every respect. I am very confident of the future success of our school system.
CIRCUITEER

YOUNGSTERS: With the arrival of warm weather, many of you are heading for your old swimming holes, and a warning at this time should not go amiss. Do not swim in ponds, creeks or places where the depth is unknown, and you are not well acquainted with the location. Diving into strange pools may cause you injury and possible death. The fountain was kept running until someone complained about the water bill. Arrangements could be worked out for the fountain to be turned off at night. That would mean a saving. At present, residents who want a cool drink have to hold the valve open until the water becomes cool. It appears there is very little being saved under the present arrangement.

Marcia faced the future with undisguised dread. Life had lost its glamor with old Abe a ruthless driver, Sandy afraid to speak his mind, and both her private and her business life in a state of turmoil.
Ellen came in to interrupt her bitter reverie, and sat down on a high stool. Marcia, in her rust-toned smock with the sunlight caressing her coppery hair, was a picture of despair. Frankly, she turned to her friend.
"Ellen, I can't understand myself. For years I've been crazy about advertising as a profession. And suddenly it has lost all its glamor. I just don't give a hang about all this," and her hand described a sweeping arc to take in all her work.
"Why, Marcia. I should think you'd be happier than ever, now. What's the trouble?"
"Man trouble."
"Oh, I see. Well, my dear, there are very few of us women who can combine marriage and a career—and even fewer men are willing to let you try it. Personally, I'm inclined to think they're right. To be a success at creative work such as you do, you must live it and love it. Not many men are willing to share your love, even with a job."
"But Ellen, Sandy—why won't he let me try it? I'd be willing to give up if I found we couldn't be happy."
Ellen shook her head. "Sandy is wiser than that, Marcia. He knows himself, knows his own nature would be the first obstacle to happiness. You know, women can be divided into two classes—those whose first interest is a man and a home, and those who can be content with work. And most men are alike: they want the undivided attention of the woman they marry. I just wish someone would want to take me away from this merry-go-round. There aren't enough brass rings on it to suit me."
Marcia looked at her friend in amazement, for the moment taken out of her own worries. The revelation of Ellen's secret heart was startling.
"Too bad we can't change places," Marcia began, then corrected herself hurriedly, "not that I'd let you have Sandy. But there must be other men—"
"Sure, several million of them, according to the last census. But do you want me to advertise for one? You don't know how lucky you are, Marcia Madden, to have a good man crazy about you. And personally I think you're a fool to let him slip through your fingers. If you're set on this damned career of yours and if you think that will be good company for the long evening and the years ahead, why go to it. But for your sake, I hope your Sandy is still around when you finally come to your senses and decide he is more important than all your fame and dollars. Oh—"
Ellen rushed from the room, ashamed of her outbreak. Marcia was shocked at the admissions she had made, yet the philosophy she preached seemed to make her own problems the harder.
If Sandy was physically incapable of accepting a so-called "part time wife," that meant that she, Marcia, would have to do all the sacrificing to make their happiness possible. If she did give up the work she loved, she realized that they would start their married life under a cloud: he feeling the burden of her sacrifice, she resenting the need for it.
Again she reached an impasse in her reasoning. There seemed no way out until one or the other of them changed fundamentally.
Hartley came into her office without knocking, startling her out of her reverie. "Marcia, you've been evading me lately, and I don't know why. I haven't done anything to offend you, have I?"
"Why no, Mr. Hartley. I've just been busy."
"And by the way, did you know my name to my friends is Walt? Why not call a truce on all this coldness, get another girl and go with me and Tony Elliott to some of the bright spots tonight? You look as if you could do with a little gaiety. What's the verdict?"
She was about to refuse, remembering the first time she had let him drive her home and caught a hint of his unscrupulous inner self beneath the mask of urbanity. Then she thought of Ellen. Here was a chance to give her friend some much needed male companionship and to take her mind off her own troubles. On the spur of the moment she replied, "All right, why not? I'll get Ellen, and you may pick us up at my apartment at 9."

Systematic Exercises That Benefit Muscles
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THOSE WHO wish to develop all the muscles in the body systematically and equally, will probably not go in very much for games or sports. Games or sports develop the body generally, but not every group of muscles is brought into play in any one exercise.
Muscle groups of the body are those of (1) the neck; (2) the shoulder girdle; (3) the upper arm; (4) the lower arm; (5) the back; (6) the abdomen; (7) the upper leg, and (8) the lower leg. Exercises which will do something to every one of these groups are as follows:
(1) The Neck: Standing erect, bend the head forward and backward; as far to the left side as possible and then as far to the right side as possible. Then rotate, looking first to the right and then to the left.
(2) The Shoulder Girdle: Standing erect with the arms straight out from the sides, move them in a circular fashion, so that the tips of the fingers describe a circle. Standing erect with the arms at the sides of the body, move them in a wide circle until they meet over the top of the head.
(3) The Upper Arm: With the arms extended in front of the body, bend the elbow 20 times. Repeat with the arms extended straight out to the side from the shoulders.
(4) The Forearm: With the arms extended, move the hands up and down, 20 to 40 times, and then allow the hands to describe a circle, 20 times.
(5) The Back: Standing erect, lean over and touch your toes with your fingers, 20 times. With the back in the erect position, lean to the side until your finger tips touch the knee, on each side 20 times. Lie down on the floor, face down, and raise the body, on your hands, up and down, 20 times.
(6) The Abdomen: Lie on the back, raise the head so that it looks at the toes, 20 times. Then raise the feet, with the knees stiff, until they point towards the ceiling, 20 times. Bend the knees so that the thighs touch the abdomen, 20 times.
(7) The Upper Leg: Stand erect, rise on your toes, and then squat on your heels, 20 times.
(8) The Lower Leg: Stand erect rise on your toes, 20 times, stand out from the sides, move them in

During the social hour the guests visited the garden.

Methodist Church Day

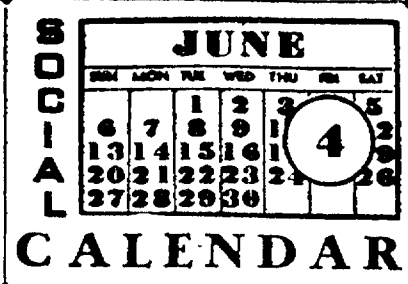

The first meeting of the women's societies of the Methodist Episcopal church held on the monthly church day was that of the Women's Foreign Missionary society, which opened Thursday's session at 10 o'clock.

The hymn, "Come Thou Fount" was sung in unison and the prayer circle was formed for the first numbers on the program. The message of the Pentecost was given to the members of the society by Mrs. Charles Gerhardt. The devotional topic was "The Good Shepherd". A poem, "My Share of the World Task", was read by Letha Beavers. The stewardship lesson was on "Prayer". Miss Mattie Brunner read a "Pledge of Loyalty to Missions". Mrs. Gerhardt closed the program with a poem, "Faith". Miss Anna Kirkwood was in charge of the program.

At the close of the meeting, lunch was served in the dining room by the Ladies' Aid society. About 50 persons were served.

The meeting of the Ladies' Aid society was held at 1 o'clock, with Miss Mattie Gerhardt, president, in the chair. Plans for reorgan-

DIZZY DEAN SCHEDULES ANOTHER CONFERENCE WITH PRESIDENT FRICK

WIFE NOTIFIES CARDS' HURLER TO MEND WAYS

Pitcher To Sue Frick, Quit Baseball and Do Many Other Things

SIGNATURE EXPECTED

Writers Believe Ace Will Agree To Demands

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
NEW YORK, June 4—(UP)—Dizzy Dean, under indefinite suspension from baseball, meets National League President Ford Frick again today in an effort at reinstatement.

Dean scheduled the appointment late last night after advice from his wife in Florida "to straighten out your trouble."

Frick refused to lift the suspension when Dean would not sign a statement repudiating certain remarks derogatory to him and Umpire George Barr published in the Belleville, Ill., Advocate. Dean denied making the remarks, but refused to back it up with his name.

"I won't sign nothing," Dean said. "They are trying to make a heel out of me."

Conference fruitless
The indefinite suspension was clamped on Dean Tuesday for "conduct detrimental to the best interests of baseball." A two hour conference yesterday between Frick, Dean, Manager Frankie Frisch and Cardinals Secretary Clarence Lloyd ended in a stalemate.

Dean decided last night he ought to sue somebody, and said he planned to take his case to "the highest courts in the land."

"They can't deprive me of my livelihood. I'll sue Frick and the National league for $250,000," he said.

Thirty minutes later Dean denied he had made such a statement but three reporters heard the remark. Earlier he had threatened to do any or all of the following.

"I'll pitch my regular turn Friday."

"I'm going back to the farm."

"I'm going to Chicago and quit baseball."

"I'm going to Florida and loaf."

"I'm going to take my case to Judge Landis. They can't shove it 'round."

If you listen to Dean long enough you can understand how ridiculous it is to take seriously anything he says. His only statement that has stood up in the last three days is, "I won't sign nothing." But St. Louis sports writers are confident that as soon as he gets tired of "popping off" he'll sign anything.

Four Courses Open
Dean has exactly four courses open:

(1) Quit baseball.
(2) Appeal to the board of directors of the National league after 10 days elapse. The board has the power to over-ride Frick.

(3) Appeal to Commissioner K. M. Landis after 10 days.
(4) Sign "J. H. Dean" to a letter written by Frick or write a letter of his own publicly denying he made the statements attributed to him by the Belleville, Ill., Advocate.

The simplest procedure is for Dean to sign the letter. Sam Breadon, Cards' owner, and Frankie Frisch have urged him to sign the fourth draft in which all reference to "bean balls," apologies to the Giants, and National league umpires, balks and personal criticism of Frick have been eliminated.

While Dean is under suspension, he draws no pay. His involuntary vacation will cost him $162.40 a day. The Cardinal high officials are not overly worried about Dean's predicament. Branch Rickey hasn't been heard from and Breadon hasn't shown any signs of wanting to come to New York to aid his turbulent pitcher.

No Hits, No Runs—

BILL DIETRICH, 27-year-old right-hand pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, entered baseball's "hall of fame" when he pitched a no-hit, no-run game against St. Louis Browns. Dietrich, whose home is in Philadelphia, allowed only three men to reach first base, two on walks and third on error by another player to win the game, 8 to 0.

LOU FETTE NEAR HUBBELL, WINS HIS SIXTH GAME

NEW YORK, June 4—(UP)—The "keeper" of the Boston Bees prayed for a top-flight pitcher and the answer was Louis Henry William Fette, 30-year-old rookie.

Lou didn't make the grade with St. Louis years ago, but this season he could furnish the answer to any major league manager's prayers, and particularly those of Bill McKeechie, whose Bees lost 115 out of 154 games to set a record in 1935.

Losing ball games doesn't fit into this husky right-hander's scheme of things after leading the American Association in games won with 25 while with St. Paul last year. He has dropped only one this year — to the league leading Pirates. He got revenge for that yesterday by blanking the Bucs, 6-0. It was his sixth win in seven starts, and Master Carl Hubbell with eight victories, is the only National hurler with more.

Except for his initial start, Fette has gone the route in every game. Against Brooklyn April 26, he retired in the seventh with a five-run lead to win his first major league game. He defeated St. Louis, 8-1, before he got his first setback from Pie Traynor's men, 4-1. Since he has stopped Cincinnati, 3-1; Chicago, 3-1; Brooklyn, 4-3; and Pittsburgh yesterday.

INDIANS VICTORS OVER YANKEES IN 6 TO 2 CONTEST

CLEVELAND, June 4—(UP)—The Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees went into the final game of their current series today with each team holding three victories over the other previously this season.

Johnny Allen, a former Yankee, was to pitch for Cleveland. He was expected to be opposed by Spurgeon Chandler, who blanked the Indians last time out.

Mel Harder's third victory of the season was a tasty 6 to 2 decision over the Yanks yesterday. Harder was in trouble in the late innings but he managed to weather the storm alone.

JOHN H. LEWIS KAYOS OLIN IN ST. LOUIS BOUT

ST. LOUIS, June 4—(UP)—John Henry Lewis knocked out Bob Olin in the eighth round of their scheduled 15-round title bout here last night to retain his world's lightweight championship.

Olin, one-time lightweight titleholder, was knocked down for a nine-count in the fourth round and in the final period was stretched out on the canvas twice before Referee Walter Heister stopped the battle and raised Lewis' right hand in victory.

Dr. Joseph Mayes, Missouri Athletic Commission physician who examined Olin after the fight, said the New Yorker had suffered a fractured rib over the heart in the fourth round.

Both fighters were evenly matched in weight, the Champion 174, the challenger 174½.

Lewis followed up his advantage gained in the fourth, pounded furiously at the challenger's head and then shifted his attack to Olin's body to send him reeling against the ropes. Olin could only hang on after the fourth round.

NAZI NEWSPAPER HITS NEW YORK BOXING DECREE

BERLIN, June 4—(UP)—The Voelkischer Beobachter bitterly attacked the New York Boxing Commission today for not vacating the heavyweight title of Jimmy Braddock who failed to show up last night to fight Max Schmeling.

Under a two line front page banner, Beobachter said: "This suspending Braddock is a farce. The sentence is organized fraud against Schmeling's rights. Until now it was not clear whether the boxing commission participated in this maneuver, but now the evidence has been produced."

"Suspension of the 'world champion' has no practical significance as he neither loses the title nor is bound to make good the injustice within a specified time limit x x x the entire affair smacks of irony. The sense of justice in every civilized man will rise up against this comedy."

"A fair sportsman has been robbed of the fruits from a hard earned victory. The whole affair throws a strange light on so-called American justice. The United States has saved the title for an indefinite time."

About This And That In Many Sports

By BILL BRATCHER
Feller Will Be Back

Your guess is as good as the next man's as to what is the matter with Bob Feller's million-dollar pitching arm... the big 18-year-old youngster has been sent back to Iowa by the Indians for a rest. There are two ways of healing a sore arm, baseball men tell me, by pitching it out, or by complete relaxation... because of Bob's extreme youth, Manager Steve O'Neill of the Tribe believes the safer course is to let Master Feller sit this one out...

Nature May Heal

"I was talking last week to Chief Bender, over in Philadelphia," said O'Neill. "He said he used to get a sore arm at the elbow quite often, but after he had worked a couple of innings the soreness would disappear. The Chief was a mature pitcher in those days, though, and I'd hate to see young Feller permanently injure that flipper."

Cy Slapnicka, general manager of the Indians, also is Feller's personal manager, and he concurs in O'Neill's judgment.

What happened to Bob's arm is that he pulled a muscle in his forearm delivering a curve ball at high speed. Up to the time of the injury, in an April game against the Browns in Cleveland, he had been throwing more curves than usual all spring, trying to perfect an effective bender.

Rest Necessary

The guess is in this corner that he'll be back better than ever after a complete rest. Many curve ball pitchers fall heir to aching elbows, and the soreness works out after a time. Feller is young, however, and must take it easy.

It will be a tremendous load off Feller's nerves for a while, anyway. Wherever he went he met the same question, "How is your arm?" or "What really is the matter with it?" You can imagine how the guy felt after answering this query about 7,219 times.
To the question, "Will he be able to pitch again?" this writer is ready to reply in the affirmative. In making such an answer, we're staking a lot on Mother Nature, who has a way of healing youth's scars if given a chance. Oh, yes, Feller will be back.

DUTRA, SARAZEN LEAD IN TOLEDO GOLFING JOUST

TOLEDO, June 4—(UP)—Olin Dutra and Gene Sarazen led a field of eight two-man teams into the second round of the third annual Inverness invitational golf tournament today as the 16 top-flight professionals went after $4,600 prize money.

Dutra and Sarazen carded a 67 to take a three-point tournament lead in defeating Tommy Armour and Jimmy Thomson, whose 70 trailed the field.

In second place were Ray Mangrum and Jimmy Hines, whose 31-32-63, eight under par, gave them a two up win over Harry Cooper and Horton Smith. A 65 was credited to Cooper and Smith.

Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, 1935 invitational champions, had a 65 for a one up victory over Ky Laffoon and Paul Runyan. The latter pair scored a 66.

Denny Shute and Lawson Little tied the 1935 champions with a one up win over Sam Snead and Ralph Guldahl. Both pairs had a 31-33-64.

ANCIENT BONES PLOWED UP IN ILLINOIS FIELD

YORK, Ill. (UP)—Undisturbed for possibly centuries, several skeletons and relics have been discovered here as further evidence of the mysterious tribe of sun worshippers known as the Mound Builders, who flourished before the first white man came to Illinois' "American Bottoms."

The skeletons were unearthed in a field south of here by farmers who were plowing the land for spring planting. At a depth of a foot or less they uncovered one human skeleton intact and near by a number of bones and ornaments which indicated at least five or six other bodies had been buried there.

Scientists were asked to examine the complete skeleton. It was indicated that the body had been well over 6 feet in height. The teeth were almost perfect.

The find again aroused interest in the huge earthen structures which dot the bottom land in this region. The largest mound, still unopened, stands in a state park near Collinsville, Ill. It is known as Monk's mound and was constructed in a series of plateaus.

DIZZY DEAN SCHEDULES ANOTHER CONFERENCE WITH PRESIDENT FRICK

WIFE NOTIFIES CARDS' HURLER TO MEND WAYS

Pitcher To Sue Frick, Quit Baseball and Do Many Other Things

SIGNATURE EXPECTED Writers Believe Ace Will Agree To Demands

By GEORGE KIRKKEY NEW YORK, June 4—(UP)—Dizzy Dean, under indefinite suspension from baseball, meets National League President Ford Frick again today in an effort at reinstatement.

Dean scheduled the appointment late last night after advice from his wife in Florida "to straighten out your trouble."

Frick refused to lift the suspension when Dean would not sign a statement repudiating certain remarks derogatory to him and Umpire George Barr published in the Belleville, Ill., Advocate. Dean denied making the remarks, but refused to back it up with his name.

"I won't sign nothing," Dean said. "They are trying to make a heel out of me."

Conference Fruitless The indefinite suspension was clamped on Dean Tuesday for "conduct detrimental to the best interests of baseball." A two hour conference yesterday between Frick, Dean, Manager Frankie Frisch and Cardinals' Secretary Clarence Lloyd ended in a stalemate.

Dean decided last night he ought to sue somebody, and said he planned to take his case to "the highest courts in the land."

"They can't deprive me of my livelihood. I'll sue Frick and the National League for $250,000," he said.

Thirty minutes later Dean denied he had made such a statement but three reporters heard the remark. Earlier he had threatened to do any or all of the following:

"I'll pitch my regular turn Friday."

"I'm going back to the farm."

"I'm going to Chicago and quit baseball."

"I'm going to Florida and loaf."

"I'm going to take my case to the courts."

Judge Landis. They can't shove ol' Diz around."

If you listen to Dean long enough you can understand how ridiculous it is to take seriously anything he says. His only statement that has stood up in the last three days is, "I won't sign nothing." But St. Louis sports writers are confident that as soon as he gets tired of "popping off" he'll sign anything.

Four Courses Open

Dean has exactly four courses open:

- (1) Quit baseball.
- (2) Appeal to the board of directors of the National League after 10 days elapse. The board has the power to over-rule Frick.
- (3) Appeal to Commissioner K. M. Landis after 10 days.
- (4) Sign "J. H. Dean" to a letter written by Frick or write a letter of his own publicly denying he made the statements attributed to him by the Belleville, Ill., Advocate.

The simplest procedure is for Dean to sign the letter. Sam Breadon, Cards' owner, and Frankie Frisch have urged him to sign the fourth draft in which all reference to "bean balls," apologies to the Giants, and National League umpires, balks and personal criticism of Frick have been eliminated.

While Dean is under suspension, he draws no pay. His involuntary vacation will cost him $162.40 a day. The Cardinals high officials are not overly worried about Dean's predicament. Branch Rickey hasn't been heard from and Breadon hasn't shown any signs of wanting to come to New York to aid his turbulent pitcher.

No Hits, No Runs—

BILL DIETRICH, 27-year-old right-hand pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, entered baseball's "hall of fame" when he pitched a no-hit, no-run game against St. Louis Browns. Dietrich, whose home is in Philadelphia, allowed only three men to reach first base, two on walks and third on error by another player to win the game, 8 to 0.

LOU FETTE NEAR HUBBELL, WINS HIS SIXTH GAME

NEW YORK, June 4—(UP)—The "keeper" of the Boston Bees prayed for a top-flight pitcher and the answer was Louis Henry William Fette, 30-year-old rookie.

Lou didn't make the grade with St. Louis years ago, but this season he could furnish the answer to any major league manager's prayers, and particularly those of Bill McKeechie, whose Bees lost 115 out of 154 games to set a record in 1935.

Losing ball games doesn't fit into this husky right-hander's scheme of things after leading the American Association in games won with 25 while with St. Paul last year. He has dropped only one this year — to the league leading Pirates. He got revenge for that yesterday by blanking the Bucs, 6-0. It was his sixth win in seven starts, and Master Carl Hubbell with eight victories, is the only National hurler with more.

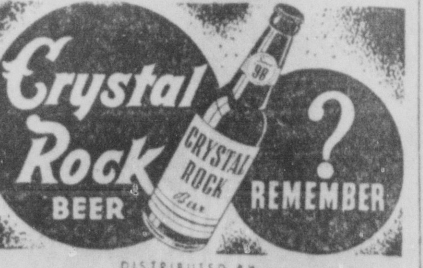

Except for his initial start, Fette has gone the route in every game. Against Brooklyn April 26, he retired in the seventh with a five-run lead to win his first major league game. He defeated St. Louis, 8-1, before he got his first setback from Pie Traynor's men, 4-1. Since he has stopped Cincinnati, 3-1; Chicago, 3-1; Brooklyn, 4-3; and Pittsburgh yesterday.

INDIANS VICTORS OVER YANKEES IN 6 TO 2 CONTEST

CLEVELAND, June 4—(UP)—The Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees went into the final game of their current series today with each team holding three victories over the other previously this season.

Johnny Allen, a former Yankee, was to pitch for Cleveland. He was expected to be opposed by Spurgeon Chandler, who blanked the Indians last time out.

Mel Harder's third victory of the season was a tasty 6 to 2 decision over the Yanks yesterday. Harder was in trouble in the late innings but he managed to weather the storm alone.

JOHN H. LEWIS KAYOS OLIN IN ST. LOUIS BOUT

ST. LOUIS, June 4—(UP)—John Henry Lewis knocked out Bob Olin in the eighth round of their scheduled 15-round title bout here last night to retain his world's lightweight championship.

Olin, one-time lightweight titleholder, was knocked down for a nine-count in the fourth round and in the final period was stretched out on the canvas twice before Referee Walter Heister stopped the battle and raised Lewis' right hand in victory.

Dr. Joseph Mayes, Missouri Athletic Commission physician who examined Olin after the fight, said the New Yorker had suffered a fractured rib over the heart in the fourth round.

Both fighters were evenly matched in weight, the Champion 174, the challenger 174½. Lewis followed up his advantage gained in the fourth, pounded furiously at the challenger's head and then shifted his attack to Olin's body to send him reeling against the ropes. Olin could only hang on after the fourth round.

NAZI NEWSPAPER HITS NEW YORK BOXING DECREE

BERLIN, June 4.—(UP)—The Voelkischer Beobachter bitterly attacked the New York Boxing Commission today for not vacating the heavyweight title of Jimmy Braddock who failed to show up last night to fight Max Schmeling.

Under a two line front page banner, Beobachter said:

"This suspending Braddock is a farce. The sentence is organized fraud against Schmeling's rights. Until now it was not clear whether the boxing commission participated in this maneuver, but now the evidence has been produced."

"Suspension of the 'world champion' has no practical significance as he neither loses the title nor is bound to make good the injustice within a specified time limit x x x the entire affair smacks of irony. The sense of justice in every civilized man will rise up against this comedy."

"A fair sportsman has been robbed of the fruits from a hard earned victory. The whole affair throws a strange light on so-called American justice. The United States has saved the title for an indefinite time."

About This And That In Many Sports

By BILL BRAUCHER

Feller Will Be Back

Your guess is as good as the next man's as to what is the matter with Bob Feller's million-dollar pitching arm... the big 18-year-old youngster has been sent back to Iowa by the Indians for a rest.

There are two ways of healing a sore arm, baseball men tell me—by pitching it out, or by complete relaxation... because of Bob's extreme youth, Manager Steve O'Neill of the Tribe believes the safer course is to let Master Feller sit this one out...

Nature May Heal

"I was talking last week to Chief Bender, over in Philadelphia," said O'Neill. "He said he used to get a sore arm at the elbow quite often, but after he had worked a couple of innings the soreness would disappear. The Chief was a mature pitcher in those days, though, and I'd hate to see young Feller permanently injure that flipper."

Cy Slapnicka, general manager of the Indians, also is Feller's personal manager, and he concurs in O'Neill's judgment.

What happened to Bob's arm is that he pulled a muscle in his forearm delivering a curve ball at high speed. Up to the time of the injury, in an April game against the Browns in Cleveland, he had been throwing more curves than usual all spring, trying to perfect an effective bender.

Rest Necessary

The guess is in this corner that he'll be back better than ever after a complete rest. Many curve ball pitchers fall heir to aching elbows, and the soreness works out after a time. Feller is young, however, and must take it easy.

It will be a tremendous load off Feller's nerves for a while, anyway. Wherever he went he met the same question, "How is your arm?" or "What really is the matter with it?" You can imagine how the guy felt after answering this query about 7,219 times.

To the question, "Will he be able to pitch again?" this writer is ready to reply in the affirmative. In making such an answer, we're staking a lot on Mother Nature, who has a way of healing youth's scars if given a chance. Oh, yes, Feller will be back.

DUTRA, SARAZEN LEAD IN TOLEDO GOLFING JOUST

TOLEDO, June 4—(UP)—Olin Dutra and Gene Sarazen led a field of eight two-man teams into the second round of the third annual Inverness invitational golf tournament today as the 16 (in-flight) professionals went after $4,600 prize money.

Dutra and Sarazen carded a 67 to take a three-point tournament lead in defeating Tommy Armour and Jimmy Thomson, whose 70 trailed the field.

In second place were Ray Mangrum and Jimmy Hines, whose 31-32-63, eight under par, gave them a two up win over Harry Cooper and Horton Smith. A 65 was credited to Cooper and Smith.

Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, 1935 invitational champions, had a 65 for a one up victory over Ky Lafoon and Paul Runyan. The latter pair scored a 66.

Denny Shute and Lawson Little tied the 1935 champions with a one up win over Sam Snead and Ralph Guldahl. Both pairs had a 31-33-64.

ANCIENT BONES PLOWED UP IN ILLINOIS FIELD

YORK, Ill. (UP)—Undisturbed for possibly centuries, several skeletons and relics have been discovered here as further evidence of the mysterious tribe of sun worshippers known as the Mound Builders, who flourished before the first white man came to Illinois "American Bottoms."

The skeletons were unearthed in a field south of here by farmers who were plowing the land for spring planting. At a depth of a foot or less they uncovered one human skeleton intact and near by a number of bones and ornaments which indicated at least five or six other bodies had been buried there.

Scientists were asked to examine the complete skeleton. It was indicated that the body had been well over 6 feet in height. The teeth were almost perfect.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WHEN NOT TO LEAD TRUMPS

IF A PLAYER is going to have any habit in playing for suit contracts, the best of all would be to lead trumps first. In fact, the first lesson to a beginner could well be to that effect. The second lesson could be that he should not lead trumps if that would consume those in the dummy which are required for ruffs. His third lesson should be that, if the first round lead is sure to be won by the opponents and they then can peel off a couple of immediate winners in some side suit, the effort should be to discard those before they get a whack at it.

Here, the North-South pair reached a contract of 4-Hearts after North opened with 1-Club, South 1-Heart, North 3-Hearts and South 4-Hearts.

The diamond K was led against this contract. South can see two diamond losers, one spade and one trump. With the controlling trump out, South is doomed to failure if he decides to lead trumps at once. His correct procedure is to postpone leading trumps until at least one diamond loser is taken care of. By quick action he has a chance to discard one of these diamonds on the clubs and in this way assure his contract.

In the event that the third round of clubs is ruffed the contract would be set, but at least the declarer gives himself a chance, which in this instance is rewarded.

4—Murray announced that two representatives of the senate civil liberties committee headed by Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, R., Wis., would arrive in the Youngstown area today to investigate union charges that the Republic Corporation officials have contended that the plants have been guarded for the protection of life and property.

5—Company spokesmen said that one of their attorneys would appear at the Warren postoffice at 9 a. m. (EST) with packages of food for non-strikers, and that he would demand that they be delivered. The postoffice department had announced that it could not accept packages of unusual character.

John Lewis Assailed

6—In a formal statement, the corporation asserted that John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, "apparently is determined to become not only a labor dictator but a military dictator as well."

7—Assistant Prosecutor William M. McLain of Warren left for Washington to "confer with federal officials" on the strike situation.

Davey's mediation conference will be held in his offices in Columbus at 2 p. m. (EST). Murray announced to 500 strikers at a meeting in Warren last night that he had agreed to confer with the governor. But he left no doubt that the negotiations would continue for a long time before there could be hope of a truce.

CROWDS CHEER DUKE AND WIFE

clouded hope that the duke and duchess would tour Venice. They said that the duke and duchess intended to remain in their coach during the stop there.

The first sign of life in the duke's coach was at Brigue, at the Swiss end of the Simplon tunnel. Curtains were raised and a porter took two dogs out for a walk.

Half a dozen Italian detectives joined the coach at the frontier. The country into which they went has been a honeymooners' heaven for more than a century. Following the shore line of Lake Geneva with its placid blue water, the Savoy Alps looming on the French side, and terrace after terrace of vineyards rising a thousand feet above their train on the Swiss side, the train went through Switzerland.

The train flashed by interspersed gray stone walls and terraces that looked from the windows like a huge patchwork quilt of green, brown, gray and purple.

Pass Other Rulers

Between Lausanne and Monreux the honeymooners passed the residences of two rulers even less fortunate than was the duke. At Vevey could be seen the villa which Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia is trying to sell because Swiss authorities will not let him live there. A few miles on was the villa of former King Amanullah of Afghanistan, who lives quietly at the lakeside with a retinue of relatives and retainers who are reported to be eating up his fortune.

Beyond Monreux the train went past the three round towers of the Castle of Chillon, made famous by Byron's "Prisoners of Chillon." White swans dotted the castle lake.

Then beyond the lake the train advanced through the Rhone valley and passed the snowcapped Dent Du Midi ("tooth of the South"), so named because its irregular flat top looks like a molar.

CITY HALL DANGEROUS

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O. (UP)—City council recently heard complaints about the tower on the city building, from which, in one evening, six loose bricks fell to the sidewalk. The structure has been condemned for 16 years.

Thieves Snip Horses' Manes

NOSE CREEK, Alta. (UP)—Ranchers here have complained to police that thieves are making night raids on their stock and stealing the tails and manes from their horses.

The three birds that represent America are the eagle, the turkey and the stool-pigeon.
